LAST TRIBUTE PAID MISS TAUL

Funeral of Young Girl Largely Attended; Had Many Friends
Among Old and Young.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Irene Taul, which was held from the home of her father L. C. Taul, last Wednesday afternoon, was attended by the many friends and large connection of relatives of the deceased. Rev. E. C. Nall, pastor of the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. J. R. Randolph, officiated at the services.

The pall-bearers were: R. L. Oelze, Harry Newsum, Joe Allen, M. Weatherholt, Larkin Gibson and Milton Squires.

The remains were laid to rest in the Cloverport cemetery by the side of Miss Taul's mother.

Those who attended the funeral from out-of-town were: Misses Mary and Audie Bates, and Mr. Patrick Taul, of McQuady; Harry T. Bates, of Louisville; Ernest Bates and Mr. Lottie Keenan, of Hardinsburg.

Those called by death just at the Springtime of life, Miss Taul had endeared a great number of friends for one of her years both among the young and old. During her many months of illness she was showered with attentions and was the happy recipient of each at of kindness. She won others to her by her cheerfulness and unselfishness. She was a brave christian character, and a few days before her demise when she realized the end was near, Miss Taul expressed to her loved ones about her, that she was not afraid and was ready to pass on to that happy land. She was a devoted daughter, and her memory will long live in the hearts of her beloved ones and friends.

TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING; MARRIED IN BRECKENRIDGE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jones, of Bowling Chapel, near Cloverport have issued invitations to their friends to attend the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary on April 16, 1921. Mr. Jones took his bride from the home of her father, Hardin D. Basham, of Union Star, on the same date in April 1871. This union has been blessed with seven children, all of whom are living and married, twenty-five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

At the golden wedding celebration the "young" bride and groom will reaffirm their marriage vows before their pastor.

REACH 905 FEET IN TEST WELL

At Victoria Cannel Coal Mines;
One of Drillers Goes to Tulsa, Okla.

A depth of 905 feet has been reached in the test well for oil at the Victoria Cannel Coal mines. In the past week the drillers have taken the casing out of the hole and are now running a hole down to set the casing in deeper so as to shut off the salt water.

Two drillers, two dressers and a cook consist of the crew employed in boring the test well. One of the drillers left last week for Tulsa, Okla., and his place is being filled by Don Smith who has had experience in drilling for oil in Louisiana.

The Victoria Cannel Coal mines are owned by an English syndicate who were operating oil wells in Russia and were closed out by the Bolsheviks during the world war. The operators at Victoria are being supervised by a Canadian.

DRESSMAKING DEPART- MENT ADDED TO B. F. BEARD & CO'S STORE.

A dressmaking department including expert seamstresses and a hemstitching machine, has recently been added to B. F. Beard & Co.'s store in Hardinsburg. The gallery at the rear end of the store has been given over to this department and two and three seamstresses are employed there to do all kinds of sewing.

Another new feature of this store is a bulletin known as "Beard's Weekly" which is being sent out every week to its patrons. The Weekly is being published in the print shop of The Breckinridge News.

JUDGE D. D. DOWELL BE- ING URGED TO MAKE RACE FOR CIRCUIT CLERK.

Many friends of Judge D. D. Dowell from various parts of the county are asking him to make the race for Circuit Clerk. Judge Dowell has been mentioned for County Judge but it seems that he has a preference for the office of Circuit Clerk.

Should he become a candidate, it goes without saying that he will make a very strong one and his record as County Judge for four years and his other extensive business experiences and superior qualifications is a guarantee that he would make a most capable and conscientious official.

FIRST BASE BALL GAME SATURDAY

B. C. H. S. to Meet Brandenburg Team Again This Saturday in Hardinsburg.

Hardinsburg, April 5. (Special)—The Breckinridge county High School team opened its base ball season last Saturday at Brandenburg receiving a defeat of 3 to 0. Both the B. C. H. S. and Brandenburg teams played like professionals. At the beginning of the seventh inning neither team had scored. Brandenburg made one score in each of the seventh, eighth and ninth innings.

Chancellor, Hardinsburg pitcher, is showing fine form this season, and with the support which he will receive from the rest of the players, after they have a little more practice, the B. C. H. S. team will play excellent ball. Names of those who will play on the Hardinsburg team Saturday, have not been determined thus far. There are about eighteen High School boys trying hard to earn a place on the team.

MISS WAREFIELD AC- CORDED CHAMPION LADY TOBACCO GROWER.

The distinction of being one of the champion lady tobacco growers in Cloverport has been accorded Miss Jane Warefield whose crop, which is said to have been very finely dried, was sold on the Cloverport Loose Leaf Floor and brought, $34, $38 and $39 per hundred for the three baskets. It was white Burley tobacco and the seeds came from Europe. Miss Warefield raised it, with the assistance of a good helper, right in her own garden plot. Being an up-to-date farmerette, she is rotating her crop and will raise potatoes this year.

Mesdames Basham and Bruner were dinner guests of their sister, Mrs. Horace Gilbert.

President Louisville Auto Club Replies to Mayor Barry's Letter

Breckinridge County News,
Cloverport, Kentucky.

Gentlemen: I notice a letter in the Evening Post by Mayor Barry of Cloverport in which he asks that contracts for building the gaps in the Ohio River route be let at once instead of spending a little money in every county in the State, and also charges the State Highway Commission has broken faith.

While I am in entire sympathy with the Mayor in his stand I do feel that he is misinformed and that he and your people should know and come to realize that there is quite a difference between conditions several years ago and conditions at the present time and these conditions must be taken into consideration or else an injustice will be done.

In the first place when the Ohio River route was started the State was operating under the old State Aid Law at which time Rodman Wiley was Commissioner of Roads later succeeded by Joe S. Boggs. The State Aid Law gave the road Commissioner full power to say where Federal money should be spent, in fact, where any and all of the State and Federal Aid money should be spent and he could spend it all in one section or scatter it over the state as he thought best.

The New State Aid Law.

Taking effect last June 17th, however, the new Road Law went into effect and this law provides a Highway Commission of four with the State Highway Engineer as a Chief Executive Officer. This law further lays out a comprehensive system of

"HOLD BURLEY FOR A GOOD PRICE"

Is The Advice of R. Sidney
Owen, Who Sold His Crop on Shelbyville Market.

Mr. R. Sidney Owen, of Hardinsburg, Route 1, advises the Burley growers of Breckinridge county to hold their crops for better prices. Mr. Owen has returned from Shelbyville where he sold his crop a fortnight ago, and in a letter addressed to The Breckinridge News he gives a valuable account of his trip. It reads:

"The writer, accompanied by J. H. Sparrow and H. I. Webb, went to Shelbyville, Ky., about two weeks ago to sell a car of about 13,000 pounds of Burley tobacco. The car arrived Mar. 21st, but we did not get unloaded and ready to sell until the 25th. Mr. Sparrow's crop of nearly 4,000 pounds averaged about 27 cents, one basket of 435 pounds brought 55 cents, another basket, 48 cents etc. My crop and one grown by Asa Hockenberry averaged 19 1/4 cents on 4,005 pounds. Mr. Webb's crop did not average so well but brought more than he could have gotten here.

"There are five large loose leaf houses there and there was a lot of tobacco being sold much low grade stuff brought down average but we saw probably a million pounds sell at from 12 to 15 cents, average and our tobacco was highly complimented by growers and buyers from that and other sections of Kentucky.

"They seemed surprised that we could grow such tobacco in this county and a few parties said they were coming here to look over our land with view of buying.

"I would say to those who have good sound bright Burley tobacco, hold for a good price or prize and ship to Louisville market as the general opinion up there was that tobacco of quality would be higher. Respectfully, R. Sidney Owen."

OVERSEAS VETERAN TAKES BRIDE FROM INDIANA.

The marriage of Mr. Horace Tucker of Irvine, Ky., and Miss Lydia Walls, of Cannelton was solemnized in the Methodist parsonage at Cannelton on Monday, March 28. The ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Chas. S. Whitted.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Walls. Mr. Tucker is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Tucker of this city. He is an overseas veteran of the World War. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker visited the groom's parents here for a few days before going to Irvine, where they will reside.

SUFFERED WITH RHEUMATISM, CATARRH AND STOMACH TROUBLE

"I think Number 40 For The Blood, as a blood purifier, has no equal. When I began to take Number 40, I was in very poor health, as I had rheumatism, catarrh, stomach trouble, lead poisoning, and an itch that I had tried almost every known remedy to relieve. I have taken six bottles of 'Number 40' and am on a fast road to recovery. I owe my life to it, as I used to weigh 127 pounds and now weigh 148, my usual weight. I could write more but this should be enough to convince the most skeptical, and you are at liberty to use this letter any way you desire." Geo. Klinker, Lima, Ohio.

The ingredients in "Number 40 For The Blood" are set down in the U. S.

Sold at WEDDING'S DRUG STORE

Dispensatory and other reliable medical books as follows: "Employed in diseases of the glandular system, in blood troubles, constipation, stomach, kidney and liver troubles, chronic rheumatism, catarrh, sores, ulcers, eczema, skin eruptions, mercurial and lead poisoning. Under its use scrofulous swellings and bodily eruptions that have withstood other treatment disappear as if by magic."

Prepared by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., 10 years a druggist. The best druggist in your neighborhood sells Number 40, but if it happens that he does not, send direct to J. C. # LUCKY STRIKE

Not—and if you have a Sharples Suction-feed Separator you don't have to, for it skims equally clean whatever speed you turn. But with every other separator you must turn the crank at just exactly the speed stamped on it, or you will lose cream—every time! The wonderful Sharples Suction-feed varies the milk feed in direct proportion to the separating force—never more milk in the bowl than it can perfectly separate. All other separators have a fixed milk feed. Thus when turned below speed much of the milk runs out without being perfectly separated, and some gets into the cream, making it thin and uneven. Thousands of actual tests have proven that 19 out of 20 persons do turn too slow most of the time, and that everybody turns too slow some of the time. Get a

SHARPLES

Famous Suction-Feed
"Skims clean at any speed"

the only separator that:

- skims clean at widely varying speeds
- gives the same thickness cream regardless of speed
- skims your milk quicker when you turn faster
- has only one piece in bowl—no discs, easy to clean
- has knee-low supply tank and once-a-month oiling

Sharples is positive insurance against carelessness and its consequent cream waste, because it skims clean at any speed. A speed indicator, which rings a bell when you turn an old-style fixed-feed separator below speed, is really an acknowledgment of the vast superiority of Sharples, which automatically prevents losses from irregular turning instead of simply announcing them. Call at my store and I will be glad to demonstrate to you this and the other superior features of the Sharples.

PROVIDING THE TENANTS WITH HOMES POLICEMAN NOW GIVES OUT FACTS

A simple, inexpensive, and comfortable house of this description for farm help appeals to married men and enables the farm owner to secure a desirable labor supply. It provides a combined kitchen and dining-room, a bedroom, and a third room which can be used either as a bed-room or living-room, dependent on the size of the family. This design is presented either with or without a bathroom, although the specialists of the Rural Engineering Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who designed the house, recommend that this convenience be installed when the house is constructed. Plans for the house will be sent on application to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

STILL ROOM TO BREATHE.

The persons who have the habit of talking about "overcrowding" the United States with immigration ought to scan the Census Bureau figures on the density of population.

There are now 35 1-2 persons to each square mile of American continental soil. As a square mile contains 640 acres, there are 18 acres for each person, of 90 acres for the average family.

Your insular New Yorker naturally feels that this is a crowded country. He does not realize that in the littlest and most congested of the States—Rhode Island the population is less than one person to the acre. He thinks of New York as a crowded State, although there are only forty families to the square mile.

When the United States has a billion inhabitants there will be room for more, assuming that we have conserved our natural resources.—N. Y. Herald.

A Legislative act just signed by the Governor of Utah makes it illegal for a man to smoke on the street or in any public place in that State.

SHEEP-KILLING DOGS

A GREAT MENACE

No Consideration Should Be Given Such Dogs.

The sheep-killing dog constitute one of the greatest menaces to the sheep industry. Such dogs not only kill sheep, but keep out of the sheep business men who are otherwise inclined to go into it, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sheep-killing dogs work both singly and in groups, but usually in twos or threes. They do not limit their attacks to the flock of the immediate vicinity in which they are kept, but travel for miles in all directions, spreading destruction in the flocks with which they come in contact. Because their work is so often done under the cover of darkness it is almost impossible to catch them in the act of worrying sheep, hence they can seldom be positively identified.

After a dog has once formed the habit of killing sheep it seemingly becomes a mania with him and he is seldom if ever broken of it. He not only destroys sheep himself but leads other dogs to the work. No consideration should be given such dogs; and if additional losses from this source are to be avoided, they should be killed as soon as their habits are known.

WAR WASTERS STAND IN BREAD LINES NOW

Made $50 to $60 a Week and Threw It Away.

Pittsburgh, Mar. 23.—From twenty to thirty young men stood before one of the Pittsburgh mission rooms, anxiously gazing at the closed door, soon to open.

"Is it a run on the gospel savings bank?" someone ventured to inquire on the outer rim.

"Bread and soup, Wednesday and Sunday evenings. This is the Wednesday bill of fare—soup and bread."

"How about the other five evenings?"

"Other places have other evenings."

"How come?"

"Oh, out of work."

"How long?"

"Several months."

"Bread and soup and soup and bread all that time?"

"Gee, no! Sometimes I get a bully handout at kitchen doors; sometimes the panhandling is good."

"Didn't you work when the working was top notch?"

"Durin' the war I made $50 and $60 a week."

"What did you do with it?"

"Boozed a little and bought $80 suits, $15 silk shirts, $5 silk socks, $20 silk combinations and took joy rides. Pawned 'em all long ago."

"Same here," said the next fellow. "I never made less than $40 a week."

"Well, do you think you deserve sympathy?"

"Tell with sympathy. We want sermons and soup, especially soup."

Says Tanlac Enabled Him to Pass Examination With Rating A-1 and He Feels Great

"I never paid out money to better advantage in my life than when I got Tanlac, for it has restored my health and built me up fifteen pounds in weight besides," said Frank J. Hebler, patrolman on the Covington, Ky., police force and lives at 513 Hakevill St.

"For a long time past," he continued, "I had not been in the best of health, and last spring I started all of a sudden to going down hill rapidly. What I ate didn't seem to do me a bit of good. After meals I bloated up so tight with gas I could hardly stand the pressure of my belt around my waist. I was on night duty, and my legs hurt so it was with difficulty I got around in patrolling my beat."

"My nerves went all to pieces and I usually went home all tired out and never got any sound sleep, just dozed by fits and starts and got up feeling worse than if I hadn't gone to bed at all."

"But Tanlac has just knocked out all these troubles and got me to feeling like a new man. Since taking it I can enjoy my food and it does me good. I sleep like a log and am in top-notch condition in every way. I recently underwent the regular reexamination for the police force and passed physically with a rating of A-1, which I never could have done in the shape I was in before I got Tanlac."

EFFECTIVE NEWS-PAPER ADVERTISING

One of the most notable local advertising campaigns that has appeared in the New York newspapers during the past three months and which has just closed, is that of H. L. Doherty & Co., dealers in investment securities. The advertisements, forty-three in number, were printed in eighteen Manhattan and Brooklyn dailies. They were set in eight-point type and usually occupied one full column.

William C. Freeman, who wrote the copy and who has a style of his own, took a principle in the advertising, showing by descriptive illustrations how people of moderate means could, by the exercise of economy, save money and invest it in such a manner that the capital would be safe and earn a better interest than is paid by saving banks. The advertisements were of the intimate, personal kind that attracts readers and holds their attention.

That the campaign has been successful is indicated by the fact that over half a million dollars worth of securities have been sold, mostly to small investors, during a period of business depression and a falling bond market, at a minimum marketing cost.

The lesson to be drawn from the experience of H. L. Doherty & Co., in this campaign is that there is plenty of money to spend if approached in the right way. What has been done in this instance through newspaper advertising can be repeated in all other lines of business that are dependent upon direct sales as a means to prosperity.—Editor & Publisher.

FORD AND THE POLICE.

The police departments of three large cities have ruled against the sale of Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent and have already made several arrests for violation of laws which, they contend, give them this right of suppression. Editor & Publisher is in no way interested in the controversy between the Independent and the Jewish people, that has resulted in this police action. It is, however, interested deeply in the fundamental principle involved.

Police supervision over the distribution of any publication or right of the police to suppress any publication for any cause is contrary to every principle and ideal on which the right of a free press rests.

If this theory of a police cordon is to prevail, then we may well expect the suppression of newspapers that attack the police force of a city as a group, and finally, the suppression of Democratic party organs in Republican controlled cities and Republican party organs in Democratic controlled cities during the heat of political campaigns.

The principle upon which American law is founded does not recognize classes or groups, religious or racial, and police action contrary to that well-laid principle is un-American and violates the rights of the individual and the greater group that comprises the entire citizenship of the nation. Henry Ford is responsible for any statements made in the Independent and the laws of the nation provide redress through the courts for any man or group of men that he wrongs.—Editor & Publisher.

A VERMONT SPRING SMUDGE.

Daniel L. Cady, in Burlington Daily News.

I like no other garden smell
So well as smoke, and never shall;
A smudge inside the garden fence
Is my idea of frankincense.
I like to see the black smoke curl,
The specks descend, the ashes whirl;
I'd rather smell my neighbor's smudge
Than eat his favorite daughter's fudge.

That pungent, bitter, harshhorn smell—
It greets you when you about as well;
Your wife comes a-snooring "Whew!"
But, Sakes Alive! she likes it, too;
It stands for slicking-up with her,
A-cleaning house outdoors as 'twere,
A thing that follows Winter's snow
As "me" does "ut" in Cicero.

There's any quantity to tell
About that smoky Springtime smell;
How much it prophesies and means
In terms of corn and peas and beans!
Each whiff that hits you with the wind
Extracts a curse for things that's tinned;
Each time the slender flame-tongues flash
You get a taste of suckertash.

There ain't no like or parallel,
I say again, to that there smell;
A tang so wholesome, so entire,
It's fun to feed the garden fire:
The leaves that banked your house you poke
Along, in hopes they'll smell and smoke
With last year's corn and cabbage roots
And vines and tops and stumps and shoots.

There ain't no other garden smell
Wherein all kinds of perfumes dwell
The savory's summered scent it holds,
The onion's three-fold breath enfolds;
To sell itself, I b'lieve, delights
To raise a smudge that kinder bites,
So, Hush! My Garden, never fear,
I have a match behind my ear.

AGED WOMAN DIES AT HARDIN GROVE

Mrs. James Wheeler Succumbed to Infirmities; Buried Today.

Mrs. Artemisia Robinson Wheeler, wife of the late James Wheeler, passed away at the old Wheeler homestead in Hardin Grove, Ind., on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Wheeler was ninety years old and had been in failing health for several months.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home, and the interment will follow in the family burying ground at Hardin Grove.

Mrs. Wheeler was a native of Hardin Grove. She is survived by two sons, Clarence and Elmer Wheeler, with whom she lived; three grandchildren, Mrs. Dan Duncan, of Kuttawa; Miss Edith Wheeler, of Louisville, and Miss Bernice Wheeler, of Cloverport, also two great grandchildren.

THE ORIGIN OF LIFE

By Margaret W. Morley

Sooner or later every normal child will be curious as to his origin. Fortunately is the one whose mother realizes the importance of answering truthfully this natural question of origin and of answering it soon enough, that is, before harmful and ugly thoughts have been put into the child's mind by ignorant or vicious persons. Any mother can prepare the way for a full answer as soon as her child is old enough to be interested in planting a seed and watching it grow. If there is no out-of-doors garden at hand, a pretty way to impart the knowledge is to plant a bean in a flower pot and interest the child in watching its growth from day to day.

How pleased he will be when the bean plant begins to blossom! Try to make this blossoming important, and thus hold his interest. Show the little blossom to his friends and playmates, or better still, encourage him to show it. Tell him that he must not pick the blossom because from it will come more beans. How can that be? Wait and see! If possible place the plant in an open window where the bees can find the flowers.

After a time, the flower will wither and its pretty petals fall off, but there is left behind a tiny green bean which grew in the heart of the flower. Watch it become larger and larger as the days pass. Finally, the pod will be filled with little bean children! Hold the plant against the light and show the child the tiny beans in the pod without picking it. Each bean is attached to the pod by a tiny stem. Tell the child how the life of the mother plant passes into the little young beans and feeds them and enables them to grow until they are large enough to leave the mother plant and start out in life for themselves. When the young beans are fully formed and quite ready the bean pod opens and the beans fall out, and, if they fall on good soil in time they too will begin to sprout and grow into other bean plants.

Show the child as many seeds and seed pods as possible, those hanging from the trees, those growing on the plants and weeds in the garden. All flowers grow from seeds. Everything that lives seems to come from seeds. Why, yes, even the little young kitten started as a tiny seed that grew in a place prepared for it within its mother. We should be very careful of the mother cat, very kind and gentle with her and never hurt her. Teach the child to respect motherhood in the animals as well as in humanity; give him a lovely thought about mothers and their and their young children, and thus make motherhood beautiful and sacred in his mind. Make the development and birth of the infant life so familiar and so natural to the child that when the time comes for him to ask questions, the answer can be easily given by the mother and easily understood by the child who has been prepared and who will often answer the question himself with a little help from his mother. She might say, "You remember about the seeds, don't you, and how they grew in their home at the heart of the flower? You remember how we talked about the little kittens and how they started the same way as the little seeds?" The child will often ask, "And was I a little seed like that?" If not, the mother can say, "You were once a tiny seed like that. Everybody was. And think what a lot of growing you did to make such a dear, big child with hands and feet and ears and eyes and everything else."

Where pure thoughts are lodged, loose thoughts cannot enter.

Danger in Incandescent Lamps.

Evidence that the high-power incandescent lamps now so commonly used for street lighting may not be wholly innocent as a possible source of fire was observed in southern California recently, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A bulb hanging 20 feet above the ground suddenly burst and the white-hot particles of metal it scattered instantly ignited the dry grass at the foot of the pole. Fire wardens of the district are now advocating the use of suitable guards about the lamps.

The Rapidly Growing Bamboo Tree.

The bamboo sometimes grows two feet in 24 hours. There are 30 varieties of this tree. The smallest is only six inches in height, and the largest, 150 feet. Bamboo is a staple material of manufacturing utility in the Orient.

WEDDED IN WHITE HOUSE

1864—July 21, Frances Folsom born in Buffalo.
1885—Graduated from Wells college.
1886—June 2, married President Cleveland in the White House.
1913—February 10, married Prof. Thomas J. Prentiss at Princeton, N. J.

AS THE Democrats had lost power under a bachelor president, James Buchanan, they regained it after a quarter of a century under another bachelor president. That strange coincidence was brought to an end by Cleveland's marriage in the second year of his administration.

From the day Cleveland entered the executive mansion at Albany, gossip busily made matches for him with one after another of the eligible women who appeared at his receptions. A special favorite of those persistent rumors was the pretty widow of one of his old law partners, Oscar Folsom, whose home was one of the few homes in Buffalo where this unsocial person had been in the habit of visiting. It was not suspected that all along his own choice had been the daughter rather than the mother.

Mrs. Folsom and her daughter were guests of the president and Miss Cleveland in their first month at the White House. Even the wisecracks of Washington did not guess that the beautiful young girl who was present at a reception—all in white—would in another year be the bride of her host.

Miss Folsom had graduated and was traveling in Europe when the country was set in a flutter by the announcement of her engagement. She returned home to meet such an ordeal as no other American girl of twenty-two ever has faced. Her name was on every tongue in America; her portrait was in every paper, and the press boat.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

crowded about her ship from which she was smuggled aboard a revenue cutter to avoid the curious crowd at New York dock.

There had been only one marriage of a president, and John Tyler was a widower, which took some of the romance out of the occasion. For the first time a president was to marry in the White House. As Miss Folsom's mother had given up her home and as her grandfather's house was in mourning for his recent death, like the affianced of a sovereign she went to her husband's home to be married.

The wedding in the blue room was extremely simple, the only guests being a few relatives of the bride and groom and the members of the cabinet. After the cake had been cut in the state dining room, the bridal pair succeeded in stealing out the back door under cover of darkness to a waiting train in a switch yard. They had eluded the curious crowds gathered in front of the White House and at the station, but not the ubiquitous press whose locomotive was under steam and in readiness to pursue them, with a trainload of reporters, to their honeymoon retreat in the Maryland mountains.

The continued attention of a vigilant press wherever the presidential couple went was indignantly resented by the bridegroom, who hotly denounced the "ghouliah glee" with which his family affairs were discussed. More malicious, more cruel were the unprinted tales which were persistently circulated as long as he remained in public life.

Mrs. Cleveland is said on one occasion to have given a pathetic hint of what the strokes aimed at the president through her little ones meant to a mother. With childlike bashfulness a daughter was holding back from the greetings of a small company at the White House, when Mrs. Cleveland said, "Speak up, dear, or the people will be told that you are deaf and dumb."

Mrs. Cleveland herself was spared at first her girlish charms, afterward her womanly dignity and her maternal devotion made this most youthful of most beloved mistresses of the White House.

PHYSICIANS MUST REGISTER BIRTHS

State Board of Health Now Is Prosecuting Paducah Negro Doctor for Failure to Report.

Louisville, March 26.—Physicians are made responsible for the reporting of births at which they assist by the Vital Statistics bill of 1915, and the State Board of Health intends, under the provision of the law which provided for the punishment of doctors who willfully or through negligence shirk their responsibility in the matter, to prosecute all physicians who fail to make the reports called for by law.

This announcement was made here by J. F. Blackerby, State Registrar of Vital Statistics, who has just returned from Paducah, where he went when his attention was called to the fact that negro physicians there were not making the reports contemplated by law with the regularity called for. While in Paducah he swore out four warrants against S. H. Joyce, a negro physician, each charging him with failure to report a birth, and Mr. Blackerby states that similar remissness anywhere in Kentucky, either among white or negro physicians, will receive precisely the same treatment at his hands.

The law provides that each failure to report a birth is punishable by a fine of from $5 to $20.

Chinese Massage.

Medical gymnastics were reduced to a scientific system by Taoist monks. The main point of the Chinese system of massage is the three principal attitudes, standing, sitting and lying, and three modes of breathing, through the mouth, nose and inspiration and expiration alternately through both organs. Iron balls are rolled swiftly to and fro in the hands to strengthen the muscles. To massage the stomach a wooden instrument consisting of three movable wheels is applied.

Redwoods in Italy.

California redwoods are commonly found planted in every section of Italy, and they seem to develop speedily under the conditions of the Italian climate, says the American Forestry Magazine. In Bologna recently a redwood tree over four feet in diameter was cut, which had been planted only about 60 years ago. Sections of this tree are now exhibited in the Museum of the Royal Forestry college at Florence.

Proper Flower Arrangement.

The essential point in all flower arrangement is that there shall be form and balance, yet that the composition shall not be perfectly symmetrical, as perfect symmetry is not found in nature. In order to attain the desired effect the flower stalks and branches used are carefully bent and twisted, and this work is done with such delicacy and dexterity as to conceal the fact that their forms have been altered by artificial means.

Seventeen-Pound Trout?

Trout vary greatly within the species, according to the nature of the waters they inhabit, the variations being manifested in their color, size, form and fin development, says the American Forestry Magazine. As to their weight, Mr. Hallock, a famous American fisherman, claims to have known of one that weighed seventeen pounds, while as a rule they do not run over three or four pounds.

This Rapid Age.

Man's business requires haste. The average business and professional man eats in a hurry and gets dyspepsia. He walks in a hurry and gets apoplexy. He talks in a hurry and gets the lie. He does business in a hurry and becomes a bankrupt. He marries in a hurry and forgets it in a hurry. He makes his will in a hurry and leaves a legal contest. He dies in a hurry and goes to the devil—and his tribe increases.—Exchange.

A MOSSBACH TARIFF.

That Will Deal a Hard Blow To American Farmers.

The United States Senate has passed a tariff bill pretending to help the American farmer. But if that mossback measure, totally unsuited to present conditions, became a law today, as the Senators know and cannot help knowing, it would be the worst thing that could happen to the American farmer.

What American farmers are most suffering from today is the fact that from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 wage earners of manufacturing industries in this country are out of work. Every one of these workless is a large consumer of our own agricultural products when he is getting a fat pay envelope once a week. So is his family. When his pay is cut off he and his family reduce their consumption of farm products and everything else. And when from 12,000,000 to 20,000,000 American consumers, the best buyers and strongest buyers of food products in the world, thus curtail their spendings on the table the American farmer with his food products to sell gets a body blow.

But if the tariff bill passed by Congress for the relief of the farmers had a chance on earth to escape the President's veto it would throw perhaps a million, possibly two million, more wage earners in manufacturing industries out of work. Their present purchasing power withdrawn from the home market, in addition to the purchasing power of the three to five million wage earners already out, would put the finishing touch on the misery of the American farmer.

This crude, clumsy and dishonest tariff, if in operation, would kill off the purchasing power of another million or so of consuming wage earners, because it would stop the purchase of foreign countries which are now buying our manufactured exports by the billions of dollars. Canada, our second largest customer in the world pays us, and must pay us, for what she buys from us largely with agricultural products and other raw materials. So must South America. So must the West Indies. So in truth must other continents and countries. If our raw material imports from there were shut out they would have to stop buying our manufacturers, for the good and sufficient reason that they then could find no way to pay for them.

When our exports of manufactures were relatively meagre, as they were only a few years before the war, cutting them off entirely would not have been a great shock. Now when they are so colossal as to be measured in billions of dollars a heavy reduction of our exports of manufactures, not to mention elimination of them, could spell nothing but national disaster.

For Congress then to try to help the American farmer at a time like this by closing down more home industries and throwing more wage earning consumers out of work, when the farmer's market depends overwhelmingly on the purchasing power of the home consumer, is like offering to cure a farmer's toothache by cutting his throat.

But the Senate knows, and the House knows, that this tariff, which would be deadly to the American farmer, will not escape the President's disapproval, will not be repassed over his veto, and therefore will not become a law. So, not to mince words, as Senator Moses has not minced them in denouncing his fellow members for their humbug action, this tariff measure is nothing but a plain fraud—and a fraud on the farmer himself.—New York Herald.

Heart Trouble Not Fatal.

Heart disease is not the barrier to an active life of usefulness as has always been supposed, said Dr. Frederick Brush to the National Society for the Promotion of Occupational Therapy. Nothing is gained and much lost by telling cardiac patients not to work, not to carry, not to play, and so on. Under proper supervision the person with heart trouble can take a large part in active life.

Atmospheric Action.

The atmosphere of the earth acts very much in the same way as does the glass of a greenhouse—it allows the rays of the sun to pass through, but imprisons the heat. Thus it is cooler on the top of a mountain than at the sea level, because, though the mountain top is nearer the sun, the atmosphere is much less dense.

Beeswax Finish.
To try this method of covering the cracks in furniture soften beeswax until the consistency of putty, then press it into the cracks very firmly, smoothing the surface over with a thin knife. The surrounding wood should then be sandpapered with the sandpaper, working some of the dust into the beeswax.

Shock Frequently Does Good.
Keep fear out of your system, but don't be troubled at a little fright. Anything in the nature of a shock or a jolt is helpful if it doesn't come too late. It is the only way that three-quarters of the inhabitants of this earth can ever be made to realize the necessity of doing what is in them to do.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

Effect of Wrong Books.
Some wrong food at the right moment, as every mother knows, may send a child into convulsions. The wrong book at the right time doesn't have such an immediately apparent effect, but it may later be the cause of a mental convulsion which will seriously mar the child's whole life, says Mothers' Magazine.

The Deadly Arrow.
A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows sometimes could kill more buffaloes than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.
The Magic Square.
The origin of the magic square is usually ascribed to the Chinese as the Yih King, an early classic, describes it. The magic square was known to the Hindus and to the Arabian astrologers.

TURKEY HEN IS FAITHFUL IF PROPERLY MANAGED

Nests Hollowed Out on the Ground, Covered With Straw and Carefully Protected are Ideal—Care of Eggs.

Chickens hens and incubators can be and often are used successfully for hatching turkey eggs, but the surest means, United States Department of Agriculture poultry specialists say, is to use the turkey hen and give her proper management. Turkey hens are close sitters and will cover, so there will be no danger of chilling, from 15 to 18 eggs, depending on the size of the hen.

Nests for setting turkeys and chicken hens are best made on the ground by hollowing out a little earth, so that the center is deep enough to keep the eggs from rolling out of the nest. A thin covering of clean straw or hay can then be used to prevent the eggs from being directly on the ground, and a large, roomy coop should be placed over the nest to keep the hen from being disturbed. When a number of hens are to be set, a long row of nests can easily be made on the ground, separating them with board partitions. If this is done care must be taken to see that when the hens come off the nests each returns to the right one instead of crowding into a nest with another hen and leaving some of the eggs to become chilled. With only a few hens it is better to set them some distance apart, as they will then require less attention.

When a Hen's in Earnest

When a hen becomes broody and shows that she is earnest by remaining on her nest for two or three nights she may safely be trusted with the eggs, provided she is allowed to sit in that nest. If she is to be set in any other nest, as is usually the case, then she should be removed to the new nest, preferably after dark, given a few nest eggs, and shut in to prevent her from returning to the old one. If she sits quietly on the nest eggs she should be taken off on the evening of the following day, and the eggs to be incubated placed in the nest. On being freed, she probably will return to her old nest; if so, she should be quickly carried back and set quietly on the eggs. She should be handled in this manner until on being let off she returns to the new nest rather than to the old one. It sometimes takes only two or three days, and seldom more than a week, to break a hen from returning to her old nest. Turkey hens do not ordinarily come off for feed and water more than once every 2 or 3 days, but when confined they should have a chance to come off every day. Occasionally a turkey hen does not come off at all, and in such case she should be taken off once a day, as otherwise she will die on the nest.

On coming off her nest the first thing a turkey hen does is to stretch her wings, step gingerly for a few steps, and then she often takes a running start and flies for a short distance. Exercise of this sort helps greatly to keep a sitting hen in good condition, and for this reason it is not well to confine her to a small space. A dust bath is greatly enjoyed by sitting hens, and helps to keep them free from vermin. Whole corn is a good feed, and fresh water and grit should always be accessible.

Lice are a great annoyance to sitting hens, and are one of the worst enemies of young poultry. To prevent their getting a start, the hen should be dusted thoroughly with sodium fluoride or some good lice powder before she is placed on the nest. The nesting material should be kept clean, and if the eggs become dirty they should be washed with a soft cloth dipped in lukewarm water. Just before the poults are to hatch, the old nesting material should be replaced with clean straw.

Incubation Period

The incubation period of turkey eggs is 28 days. The first egg is usually pipped during the first part of the twenty-seventh day, the first poult hatched by the middle of that day, and the hatch completed at the end of 28 days, although in extreme cases all the poults are not hatched before the end of 30 days. Turkey eggs are tested for fertility and for dead germs, as a rule, on the tenth and twentieth days.

RULES "HE DONT" IS ENGLISH

School Head Also Favors "It Is Me;" Other Forms Stilted.

The expression "it is me" and "the don't" are permissible for both school teachers and pupils in Cook county, Illinois, public schools under an opinion issued by Edward J. Tobin, superintendent of the county schools.

Superintendent Tobin said the correct form, "it is I," sounds stilted and even egotistical, and that it does no good to teach children forms of expression "outworn by common usage and a sense of good form." He said he was not instructing his teachers to depart from grammatically correct usages, but would not reprimand them if they did.

CHINESE FAMINE LAID TO DEFORESTATION

THE REV. WILLIAM STOUT.

DESTRUCTION of China's great forests is blamed by returning missionaries for the world's worst famine that now threatens to wipe out 15,000,000 lives in North Central China.

The Rev. Mr. Stout, of Louisville and Georgetown, Ky., who has returned home after five years in China, will begin a tour of the State next week to tell of the horrible conditions in the famine area.

The Rev. Mr. Stout is active in raising funds for the China Famine Fund, of which Joseph Burge, Louisville, is treasurer, and the Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, is chairman. Through the China Famine Fund, every relief organization in China is supplied with funds.

KENTUCKIAN TELLS OF WORST FAMINE

The Rev. William Stout Blames China's Catastrophe to Destruction of Forests

WILL SPEAK OVER STATE

Destruction of North China's great forests during the centuries that have passed; this deforestation which now leaves an area of 500,000 square miles denuded of trees, is the direct cause of the worst famine in history. This is the declaration of missionaries returning from the famine area and voiced by the Rev. William Stout, who has returned to his home in Georgetown, Ky., after five years in China.

The Rev. Mr. Stout will start a speaking tour of the state next week in the interest of the China Famine Fund of which Joseph Burge, 9 Board of Trade Building, Louisville, is chairman.

Through the China Famine Fund, every relief organization in China is supplied with funds; these organizations, including the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Christian missions, religious organizations and American units.

Deforestation is Blamed.

"This great catastrophe which threatens to wipe out the lives of 15,000,000 persons within the next sixty days, he said, is due to droughts, the natural result of the denudation of forests which has gone on for centuries in North China. With few trees on the land to hold the moisture the natural consequence is that rainfall is small and uncertain. Even in years when the rainfall is sufficient the Yellow River and other rivers break over their banks, unprotected by trees, washing away the soil and deluging the crops.

"It is a prevalent idea that rice is the main food of all the Chinese people. This is true in South China where travelers get their impression and is strengthened by the fact that nearly all the Chinese in America came from South China. In the fall, wheat is sown in North China and after being harvested in the early summer, millet and sorghum are sown.

Roots Always Eaten.

"All these crops are harvested by being pulled up by the roots as these with the stalks and straw of the grain are the main dependence for fuel. In the years when crops are short it does not mean only that some little luxuries will have to be given up, but it means that there will be less of the coarse millet meal bread. It means that when the potatoes are gone the vines will be eaten; it means that instead of two or three meals a day there will be only one.

"When a crop failure is fifty per cent, as it often is, it means that many starve to death. The last five crops have been only about ten per cent of normal.

"Practically all of North China is village after village, often only separated by a few yards of ground. In parts of North China the population is twenty times denser than in Jefferson County. The Chinaman may live and carry on a business in a port remote from his ancestral village, but he expects to go there and spend his last days and be buried by the side of his ancestors."

BRILLIANT COMET VISIBLE IN JUNE

Known As Pons-Winnecke Part of World to See Celestial Fireworks.

In describing the Pons-Winnecke's brilliant comet, the Elizabethtown News says:

"A large and brilliant comet, known as the Pons-Winnecke, is sweeping through the heavens headed directly for the earth, according to observations recently made by leading astronomers in this country and England.

"Whether a collision will occur is not yet certain. In any event, the scientists agree, so far as the earth as a whole is concerned the effect will be negligible, as the comet is so much smaller than the earth.

"Dr. A. C. D. Cromelin, of the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, England, estimates that the comet will pass through the earth's orbit June 24. Whether the earth will occupy that particular spot in its orbit at that time remains to be seen.

On that date, however, at least a part of the world will witness an exhibition of celestial fireworks unparalleled for several years, as Pons-Winnecke is described as having a "fiery tail" of unusual splendor.

The last exhibition of the sort was witnessed in 1912, when Halley's comet approached the earth."

MOSQUE STILL STANDS

Relic of Former Kaiser's Pose Evokes Criticism in Germany.

A reminder of the time when the former Emperor William attempted to pose as a leader in the Moslem world remains at Wuensdorf, Germany. In the form of a Mohammedan mosque, which was erected by the Kaiser in the first years of the World war. Eight hundred orthodox adherents of the teachings of the Koran regularly worship in it.

It is the only mosque in Germany, and William built it for the benefit of the Cossack and Kirghis Tartar war prisoners who were captured while serving with the Russians and French. An internment camp surrounds it. Under the law of the Koran the mosque must never be destroyed.

There has been considerable criticism of the former emperor for having erected it and for the present government for maintaining it, but pointed out that destruction of the mosque would be a serious offense in the eyes of all Mohammedans.

MALAGA WINE SHIPMENTS TO U. S. GROW IN DRY YEAR.

Washington, March 21.—During the first year of national prohibition in this country Malaga, Spain, shipped to the United States five times the total amount of wine sent here in the ten preceding years. American Consul Smith says in a report received today by the Department of Commerce. The total of wine exports from that place to America in 1920 exceeded 475,000 gallons, the Consul says, and was shipped under permits for non-beverage purposes.

Export of raisins from Malaga to the United States in 1920 was unprecedented, the Consul reports, the total being 10,906 metric tons, or approximately 1,000 tons more than the total to all countries in 1918.

ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE

Haunting memories of $5,000 worth of moonshine liquor it had produced clung around a captured still sold in Titusville, Fla., at public auction. Yet it was knocked down by the sheriff to the lone bidder for five cents.

The optimist is one who can get aid out of lemon that is handed him.

FORECASTING SPRING

This lovely frock of gray crepe-de-chine may be taken as a criterion of the spring styles for afternoon wear. It fulfills all the requirements of the mode, beginning with the most important, and that is simplicity. It has a slip-over bodice, fastening on the shoulder, a long tunic laid in plaits and a plain underskirt. Between the high and the low waistline it chooses the latter and makes a compromise between long and short sleeves with the three-quarter length, flaring style. Spring is written in all its details but emphasized in the eye-let embroidery and silk disks that make up its decorations. The odd opening at the front, which distinguishes this dress, revealing a little button-trimmed vestee of lace, is a feature of the new styles. Often it glimpses a bright color.

WIRELESS TELE-GRAPPHY LESSENS DANGER AT SEA.

Changes in Navigation Which Have Come Since Its Use.

On tramp steamships the radiog has many times earned its keep by ordering ships in midocean to change their destination to ports where there were more favorable markets, or perchance less dissatisfaction among the dock workers.

From the earliest days of offshore navigation, when the navigators depended on uncertain latitude sights; through the travail of "lunars," till chronometers were introduced, the timing of longitude has progressed. The uncertain rates of the chronometers, however, required that three or more of these expensive timepieces be carried aboard a steamship for intercomparing.

Even with multitudinous chronometers, there was still possibility of error; but wireless has come to the rescue. Nowadays a single chronometer, aided by diurnal time signals, suffices in most cases. It has even been suggested that a good grade of clock will eventually replace the more costly timekeeper.

Besides the warnings of violent approaching storms, vessels are counselled of nearby icebergs. Through the wolflike submarine no longer roams the sea, floating derelicts still wander unguided, a constant menace to seamen. After once locating these drifting hulks passing ships are advised of their whereabouts till they disappear or a beneficent revenue cutter ends their existence.

Wireless telegraphy has revolutionized sea conditions. The ever ready means of calling for assistance has reduced the after danger of an accident at sea to a minimum. Cases are known of thrifty minded skippers who "pick and choose" their rescuers. Offers of friendly aid from nearby ships have been spurned, and for humanity's sake these would-be Good Samaritans have "stood by" the injured vessel till a revenue cutter, summoned from a distant station, has arrived. These craft on their errands of mercy might well be termed "non-revenue" cutters from their policy of not exacting toll for their salvage.

NUNS FREED FROM VOWS

German Convent Trouble Causes Its Dissolution by Cardinal.

A decree dissolving the Marienthal Convent, near Strasbourg, was produced by Father Szard, a Hungarian priest, sent to intervene in pending differences at the convent over the departure of German nuns, who left after the armistice, when the nuns refused to recognize the priest's authority. The decree was signed by Cardinal Valfre di Bonzo, and charges breaches of discipline and the repeated ignoring of an apostolic delegate.

The decree releases the nuns from their vows and orders the restoration of the dowries they brought, but authorizes the delegate to make exceptions in his discretion.

NOTICE

Mr. J. O. Bennett, of Custer, Ky., announces that he has sold his partnership interest in the firm of J. O. Bennett & Company, doing business at Custer, Ky., and that he is now engaged in business at Woodrow, Ky., and will greatly appreciate the remembrances which may be extended to him by his friends.

Mr. Bennett sold his interest in the Custer store to his former partner Mr. Virgil N. Harned, of Custer, and Mr. Harned will continue in business at the old stand.

SALVATION ARMY TO EXTEND WORK

Will Conduct Campaign to Benefit Every Cross Road Hamlet in This Section of Kentucky.

A national campaign to bring to the very small town and the rural community all of the service that has proved highly successful and a wonderful force for good in the big cities, is being conducted by the Salvation Army. Brigadier Herbert Roberts, Divisional Commander of the Army at Cincinnati, whose territory comprises Western Ohio and all of Kentucky is at the head of the movement which is expected to benefit every cross roads hamlet, every farm in their district. A similar undertaking has been launched throughout the entire United States and expert organizers are being sent everywhere, to the end that the Salvation Army "Blue Bonnets" may be brought to every door in the land, even the humblest door.

Home Service Program. According to Brigadier Roberts, the Home Service Program of the Army will place its trained officers and its institutional service at the disposal of every community through the organization of community advisory boards which co-operate with and are representative of the Army. These are small volunteer bodies of men and women who have distinguished themselves by their community leadership and by the confidence and trust reposed in them by their fellow citizens at home.

Brigadier and Mrs. Roberts say that the contemplated work of the Army will be the first of the kind ever attempted by a national organization. In other words, they explain, the Army will endeavor to handle cases in sections which at present are not equipped for such service and thus endeavor to become the "one best friend" for every man, woman and child.

NEW SUPERDREAD-NOUGHT LAUNCHED

Theo. Roosevelt, Asst. Sec. of Navy Says Perilous Times Make Need for Big Navy.

Camden, N. J., March 22.—The United States battleship Colorado, sister ship to the Maryland and one of the superdreadnoughts authorized in 1916, was launched today at the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

The vessel is the largest ship of war ever built on the Delaware river and after she had been swung across stream by the tugs which picked her up after she took the water she seemed to extend a third of the way across the river. She was christened by Mrs. Ruth Nicholson Melville, a daughter of Senator Samuel D. Nicholson of Colorado. Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who stood beside Mrs. Melville, made a speech at a luncheon following the launching, in which he warned those present that the country was facing a critical period and that it is unwise to listen to the sincere pacifists and sincere fools who are against a big navy.

The Colorado is the second of eleven superdreadnoughts authorized in 1916. Her sister, the Maryland, is nearing completion at Newport News and will be commissioned this year. Three other ships of the same class are also under construction.

Although more powerful than any other warships now in commission, the Colorado and the four vessels immediately in her class will not long retain their supremacy as the navy's most formidable fighting machines, for the six other ships of the eleven provided for in 1916 will surpass them in tonnage and armament. These latter ships will carry one more gun on a turret than the Colorado and her sisters, and will be required to develop a speed of 23 knots against the 21 required of the others.

When she is fully armed the Colorado will have a main battery of four turrets, with two 16-inch guns to each turret. She and the Maryland will be the first American ships to carry 16-inch guns, but the six great craft yet to be built will be armed with 18-inch pieces.

The Colorado will have a secondary battery of fourteen 5-inch rifles, four 3-in. anti-aircraft guns, and two torpedo tubes. She is 624 feet long and will be driven by four electric drive turbines, constructed to develop 28,900 horsepower. She will carry a crew of sixty-five officers, 1,345 enlisted men and seventy-five marines.

PREFERS JAIL TO HIS WIFE

Husband Elected to Serve Year in a Prison Rather Than Live With Her.

In preference to returning to his wife, whom he was accused of assaulting, John McHarg of Jersey City, N. J., elected to serve a year in the penitentiary.

Mrs. McHarg said her husband came home drunk and attacked her. McHarg denied the assault. The judge told the defendant he usually sent wife beaters to the penitentiary for a year, but that if McHarg would promise good behavior he would put him on probation. McHarg, however, stated he would rather spend a year in jail than go back to his wife.

Enough material has been taken from the famous asphalt lake on the Island of Trinidad during the last 50 years to pave a street 18 feet wide running around the world, and yet the lake's surface has been lowered less than a foot.

CARTER'S LANDING

The Hon. Edward Gregory has got himself into a damage suit or something. Why? Because he has ruined our matrimonial prospects. Has let the girls to believe we had been kicked out of the Bachelor's Club on account of the age limit. Speaking of age, we met Mr. James Meador, we asked him how old he thought Mr. Gregory was, "That man has been writing real estate booms for Cloverport since the crime of seventy-three and I have been told that he has been on earth twice."

The other day Mr. Gregory walked into John Wisenberg's place of eats called for a dozen frog legs served a-de-Lea- Mull. "A-de-Lea what?" says Oscar the head waiter, with his eyes bulging out. "We are just out dat and Old Mull is so lazy he won't skin dein frog as fast as Mike DePike can cook 'em but I can fix you up a tadpole stew." E. G. gaggled a time or two and out he went.

We walked into Wisenberg's place the other day, Mike DePike Alexander was figuring on the bottom of his egg skillet. "What are you trying to figure out Piks?" says we. "Trying to figure out what Ernest Popham's cornering the misletoe market had to do with Old Mull's frog ranch."

Here are the names of officers of the Asbury No Work Club for 1921: Jas. Meador, Chmr.; Edward Gregory, Secretary; Horace Gilbert, Treasurer; John Hemphill, Doorkeeper. Old Mull tried to brake into the No Work Club, but they decided he was so lazy he wouldn't attend the meeting so he was rejected.

The other day we met Horace Gilbert in an awful hurry, "What's the matter Horace, some one sick?" "Nope going down to Dr. Parrish's to get vaccinated." "What small-pox in town some more?" "No, Harding has just taken his seat as President. Work is liable to brake out at any time." We disappeared around the corner.

June Carter springs this one on John Carter. John and June took a little trip to Louisville and Lakeland last week, took the popular river route aboard the good steamer, Nashville. When they were in sight of Derby, Ind., John says to June, "Wonder if this boat will land at Derby?" June says, "I don't know, ask the Captain Edgar Williams." "Say Capt, does this boat land at Derby?" "No sir, it does not." Well, John says, "if the boat don't land I must, so over the guard rail he plunged. June saved him by grabbing him by the coat tail as he went over.

Dear Uncle Ben our frogs are growing fast. Some of them are large enough to hollow jiggerum. A prohibition officer arrested four of them last week for making a noise like that under the Volsted act. As soon as Mr. John Duke, a well known frogologist and school teacher arrives from the bottoms you will see things hum on the ranch. Mr. Duke, Celestine O'Connell and Alfred Popham will be initiated in the Bachelor Club as soon as we can erect an arena. On account of their length will have to initiate them in the open. A few cents admission will be charged to repair the goat after the tussle. How we discovered Mr. Duke was a frogologist he wrote some time ago for The Breckinridge News a piece on frog culture. This noted live wire in frogery is the son of Bob Duke the big mogul that furnishes the power at the Squires and Bandy Mill.

An Adventure Romance
By
GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN
COPYRIGHT THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

TAXI—PART IV (Continued From Last Week)

Great was the consternation of the enterprising speculator in theft when he was confronted by two persons in one; namely, Mr. R. H. Randolph, lessee of Car No. 1898, and Mr. R. H. Randolph, alias Slim Hervey, the late driver of said cab. His glib tongue, loaded to the gills with arguments as to how much the fare would save through the sudden exit of the clock from the ken of man, tripped hopelessly on this vision of wrath in the shape of a driver in whose interests the tick-er had been faithfully slaving.

It took Mr. Randolph just thirty-two precious minutes to force, the crest-fallen one to replace and readjust the busy bee of meter readings. When he returned to the fray upstairs, he noticed a strange phenomenon of poker—age, unmistakable age, had settled on the faces of the five youths. He put his fingers to his own countenance; he could feel the added years.

The game ended, as do all titanic battles, in absolute silence. Mr. Randolph sorted, stacked, tabulated his winnings, and stuffed them into all the pockets on his person. He then noted the hour—eleven o'clock of a bright Thursday morning—and, proceeding to the nearest telephone booth, called up Mr. William Verries of Verries & Cat, stock brokers.

"That you, William? This is Bob Randolph. William, I've got sixteen thousand dollars in my jeans at the moment of speaking. What's the lowest margin you'll give me to sell Amal, I. S. & C. short for delivery at tomorrow's closing?"

"Sell Amal, I. S. & C. short!" gasped Mr. Verries. "Why, you're crazy! Buy, and I'll talk to you."

"I don't want to buy," said Mr. Randolph patiently. "You're right, in a way, about my being crazy. You see, since you saw me the other day, I've come into some easy long stuff, and it's just ruining my experiment in the philosophy of a moneyless life. I want to lose my wad just like I told you, and if you don't promise to start selling for me inside of the next five minutes, I'll let friendship slide and call up some real brokers."

"Well, if you put it in that way, you escaped loon, I'll assist your sap-headed philosophy to your exact cash limit. When will you pony up?"

"In twenty minutes by the clock," said Mr. Randolph cheerfully, and hung off.

The historic pounding drive on Amal, I. S. & C. that started with the opening of the market on the following day was of such Homeric proportions that the advance sale made by Messrs. Verries & Cat on behalf of Mr. R. H. Randolph during the Thursday afternoon next preceding was a mere drop in the bucket of oblivion to the public at large—a mere flea-bite lost in the shuffling of epidermises to the monster saurians involved in the combat; but to Mr. Randolph, it was a matter of transcendent importance.

With a feeling of great relief over an order that he had placed with his tailor nine days previously for complete new afternoon and evening outfits, the successful lunchbuster collected one hundred and thirty-two thousand, thirty-eight and no hundredths dollars and proceeded to turn in his wagon to the Village Cab company, together with the highest clock reading ever known in the history of Manhattan. He then chartered one of the vehicles for hire of that concern and directed it to carry him to his new clothes.

At ten minutes to four, he emerged from his tailor's, garbed in the very latest thing in slim-line morning coats, a top hat, penly-striped trousers, spats, a mottled, platinum-handled, smokewood stick, and a gardenia in his buttonhole. Ignoring the wise and friendly-sneering look on the face of the cab driver, who was none other than our old friend of sartorial vintage, Patrick O'Reilly by name, fallen on evil times, and re-engaged that very day on Mr. Randolph's recommendation, he gave a certain address in Fifty-ninth street.

Let us now break one of the cardinal rules of narrative for cash by ruthlessly switching the objective point of view. Behold Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton dressed in a ravishing, modestly modern tea-gown effect that would have cost her great-grandmother a duking in the pond off Bleeker street if she had dared to wear it in her day at a fancy-dress ball, pacing up and down Mr. Randolph's recent sitting room and counting off nine on her fingers for the hundred and eighty-sixth time.

And then, at last, the bell! Tomlinson, his jaw set grimly, advanced upon the door. For an agonizing small moment, Pamela held her breath, and then let it go with a rush as she heard the old valet's sonorous voice thud, nay, reeking, with the joy of welcome.

"Glad to see you back, Master Robert. Miss Thornton will receive you in the sitting room." Followed jingling sounds as Tomlinson disconnected the doorbell.

He was right in surmising that his former employer did not require a guide, but, as it turned out, there was no reason why he should not have witnessed the very proper meeting which took place between the two outwardly cool young members of society who were inwardly, nevertheless, seething with more emotions than there are fumes in a lime-kill.

"Miss Thornton!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, as, from force of long habit, he laid hat, stick and gloves on a side table and then advanced with a tentatively outstretched hand. "Oh, how do you do?" asked Pamela, rising and offering her hand. "Wo—won't you sit down?"

"Thank you; I will." He took the other end of the couch, crossed his legs in an effort to appear thoroughly at home, and gazed almost furtively at the apparition before him. Ye gods and heaps of daffodils! What a vision of loveliness, of charm, grace, breeding, carriage and nurtured beauty! What a bubbling well of mirth; what a source of the light of youth that never fails; what an armful of divine delight!

"Er—I—er—told Mr. Millyuns I'd call," said Mr. Randolph.

"Yes?" eagerly countered Miss Thornton.

"Mr—I—said I'd be here at four," supplemented Mr. Randolph.

"Yes; he told me," murmured Miss Thornton, not quite so ardently.

"Er—it's just four now," stated Mr. Randolph.

"So it is," agreed Miss Thornton quite coolly, glancing at the clock and registering surprise—tone quite calm and dignified.

A long silence intervenes. The lady could easily break it, but won't. She has gathered somewhere that silence is often a clue. Mr. Randolph evidently shares the intuition; he must say something and does.

"I've been very busy since I saw you last."

"How interesting!"

"Yes; it has been—in spots. I've—er—been studying the under side of the upper world through a hole in the front glass of a taxi. It has given me a great idea."

"Really?"

"Yes; I'm going to start the Man-hattan Chaperoned Cab company."

"The what?" asked Miss Thornton, forced to show interest in the preposterous project in spite of the fact that her eyes were growing more and more wounded and the corners of her tremulous mouth were drooping further and further south.

"Chaperoned Cab company," repeated Mr. Randolph, his broad brows puckering in serious thought over his wide blue eyes. "It doesn't sound like much of an idea until you follow it out. Would you like to have me explain it to you?"

"Oh, certainly."

"Well, it all hangs on an invention of my own—an attachment to the ordinary taximeter of a miniature map of New York and vicinity and a sort of semantic-needle affair. You set the needle on the point in the map corresponding to where the cab starts from in—er—real life. Wherever the cab goes, the needle shows the route in red ink on the map, with a time signal of how long it stopped at any given house, park, store—er—at cetera. Do you begin to get the idea?"

"No—no," said Miss Thornton.

"Just think a minute. Tired old couple of conventional ideas and acutely beyond the age of dancing are in horror of sitting up all night watching daughter have a good time. Send her in one of my cabs; the ink-route will show just how straight she went to the party, how long she stayed, and how she came back. I forgot to mention the dictograph attachment in every vehicle. Take another case: Man married to a pretty and very young wife. Can't you hear him say, 'Yes, my d-d-dear; you can go anywhere if you'll take a Chaperoned Cab?'"

HUGE WOODEN BOTTLE FORMS 3-STORY HOME.

New Englanders Convert Advertising Sign Into a Home.

Strangers wandering about the shores of Pine Island Lake, in New Hampshire, are likely to receive something of a shock upon encountering suddenly in the woods, the apparition of a huge bottle, competing with the trees themselves in height, says Popular Mechanics Magazine for April, in an illustrated article. The giant flask, 35 ft. in height and 10 ft. in diameter, is made of wood, and forms the main part of a summer home. Inside it is three stories high, containing a circular dining room on the first floor and sleeping chambers of similar form on the second and third, with a stairlike ladder connecting them. Doors and windows have been cut in the curved sides, and an addition of bungalow shape has been built on at one side, to afford a conventional kitchen and living room.

Despite its odd shape, the queer summer camp is well furnished and provided with such conveniences as electric light and telephone service. The bottle was formerly an amusement-park advertising sign.

COMBINATION SALMON SALAD.

1-lb. can pink salmon, 3 hard-boiled eggs, 2 heads good firm lettuce, 1 small can peas, 1-2 cucumber.

Shred the salmon lightly with a fork, but the lettuce into fine strands and mix both together lightly, then add the peas freed from all moisture and decorate with finely sliced cucumber and eggs cut into rings. This salad is served with mayonnaise dressing, and is very fine. Is also very decorative when served on large lettuce leaves. This quantity makes 16 portions, suitable for picnic salads. For home serving, reduce ingredients proportionately.

RAT IS REAL MENACE TO HEALTH OF NATION

Government Official Urges General Campaign of Extermination as Economic Necessity.

"The necessity of a campaign of unvarying efficiency against the common brown rat is obvious," says W. B. Bell of the United States biological survey.

"No other animal or insect is so dangerous and persistent an enemy, and no other enemy succeeds in inflicting the damage that the rat annually imposes upon humanity."

"But the rodent's enmity is far from being satisfied by economic injury. A frequenter of all the places that are vile and lathsome, the rat is a most efficient germ carrier. The germs of the dreaded 'black death' have killed more human beings than all the wars of the world's history, and these germs are introduced into the human system by the bite of the rat flea. In India, no longer ago than 1896, the bubonic plague killed 9,000,000 persons. In Europe, during the 14th century, it is believed to have brought death to 25,000,000 human beings. Other diseases, almost as dreadful, are traced to the common rat."

"Trapping should be done continually and systematically in all rat-infested places. Rat poisons should be employed. Community or civic organization is of the greatest importance. It does no good to drive the rats from one cellar into the next if they are allowed to breed unmolested in their new quarters. If one pair of rats is left they can reproduce the original number in a little while, as rats breed five or six times a year with an average of 10 to the litter.

"In connection with the extermination campaigns, preventive measures should be employed. First among these is the protection of all food supplies, the removal and destruction of refuse is the next step in prevention, as abandoned dumps and piles of waste material furnish excellent shelter and food for the rats that have been driven from the houses and cellars."

PREVENTING AND REMOVING MILDEW FROM LEATHER GOODS.

Any leather article is almost certain to mildew if kept in a warm, damp, dark place, such as a closet, cellar, or stable. This mildew probably will not seriously reduce the serviceability of the leather, unless allowed to remain on it too long. It may, however, change the color appreciably thus injuring the appearance.

The simplest way to prevent mildew says the United States Department of Agriculture, is to keep the leather in a well-ventilated, dry, well-lighted place, preferably one exposed to the sunlight. Mildew can not make much headway in the sunshine. When mildew develops, it should be washed off with soap and warm water, or simply wiped off with a moist cloth, drying the leather well afterwards. These simple measures are better than the use of preparations to prevent the growth of mildew.

AUTOS DISPLACE TROLLEY LINES

By Charles E. Mace, in April Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Automobiles are slowly but surely crowding the tram cars off the streets of scores of American cities, but Bowling Green, Ky., is perhaps the first community where the traction company has shouted "Kamerad," and given up the fight.

This thriving little municipality, with a population of 15,000, claims the distinction of issuing more automobile licenses than any other city of its size in the country. It is said that there is an automobile to every three inhabitants.

This condition is due largely to the fact that Bowling Green is the center of activities in the western Kentucky oil fields, and an automobile is a necessary piece of equipment in operations for oil. The tramway has consequently suffered, until recently it "gave up the ghost" completely.

The final blow came when one of the cars met one of the few remaining pedestrians "head-on" at a street intersection. The victim brought suit against the traction company and won his case. The company being unable to pay the damages awarded, turned over the entire equipment to the thankful plaintiff. The latter rightly considered the further operation of the tram cars an unprofitable venture and promptly junked it. Rails and wire were removed from the streets and sold as scrap metal, and the automobile now holds full sway on all the highways and byways of Bowling Green, an early example of the future motorized city.

GRACEFUL SPRING WRAPS

Apparently the most important mission of the spring styles in wraps is to be graceful. Long lines, vague and very mobile, and a casual adjustment of the garment to the figure, have a "chic" that cannot be outclassed.

Scents in Wood.

With the woods of the world to choose from, one can easily arrange a whole scale of scents from the sweetest and most delicate of perfumes at one extreme, to rank and overpowerful odors at the other, says the American Forestry Magazine. The stores of the perfumery shop will not yield a greater variety than one can find in woods.

New Use for Wood Pulp Waste.

By carrying a step further the process of recovering sulphite spirit from the waste of wood pulp factories, by evaporation, it has been discovered that a new and valuable fuel may be produced, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The process precipitates the organic contents of the lye in the form of powdered coal.

Wonderful Vatican Library.

The Vatican library is the most sumptuously housed of all libraries, and contains some of the rarest manuscripts in existence. The printed books include over 2,500 volumes issued in the fifteenth century, many of them vellum copies. The library is said to contain over 22,000 volumes and 30,000 manuscripts.

Ancient Signs Asked Votes.

The use of chalked instead of printed notices for advertisement and political propaganda has ancient precedent, as the "graffiti" of Pompeii attest. There we find in red letters painted on the walls that "the barbers wish to have Troilus as needle" or that "the fruit sellers wish one centus Pricens for the duminate."

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

(Copyright, 1920, by James Morgan.)

WILLIAM MCKINLEY

1897—March 4, William McKinley inaugurated. 24th President, aged fifty-four.
1898—Feb. 15, the battleship Maine blown up in Havana Harbor.
April 21, War declared against Spain.
July 7, Hawaii annexed.
Aug. 14, City of Manila captured.
Dec. 10, treaty of peace signed in Paris.
1899—Feb. 4, the Philippine War began.
1900—Aug. 15, the Allied Expedition to Peking.
1901—Sept. 6, McKinley shot by Leon Czolgosz.
Sept. 14, died, aged fifty-eight.

EVENTS make sport of the schemes of mice and men. McKinley entered the race for the presidency on the tariff issue, was elected on the money issue . . . and the greatest problems that confronted him in the White House were the fate of a chain of islands off the coast of Asia and the destiny of China!

Spain had been engaged for two years in a desolating struggle to hold in subjection the revolting island of Cuba, and two happenings pushed McKinley into the conflict in spite of himself. In a private letter, the Spanish minister at Washington scoffed at the president as a "politico"—in plain American, "a peanut politician"—and plainly intimated that the fair promises which the Spaniards were giving him were only a trick to fool the administration and the American people. Within a week of that exposure, the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, with the loss of 266 American lives.

After withstanding for nearly two months the popular outcry of "Remember the Maine," the president yielded, and war was declared. In ten days Dewey had smashed the enemy squadron in Manila bay; in ten weeks another squadron was sunk or captured off Santiago; in three months and a half poor old Spain threw up the sponge.

It took twice as long to make peace as to make war. The Philippines cursed all the trouble. As we had not captured the islands in the war, many believed that we should let them alone. But McKinley decided to demand from Spain the surrender of the Philippines.

Without waiting for ratification, the president dispatched a military expedition to take over the Philippines, proclaiming to the revolting Filipinos the policy of "benevolent assimilation." The resulting war dragged its unpleasant length for two years before the inhabitants unwillingly bowed to their new master.

It was the strange fortune of a president whose entire public life had been given exclusively to domestic questions to plant the flag in the distant Philippines and to send it to the pink walls of the Forbidden City of China. In the march on Peking for the rescue of the foreign legations from the siege of the Boxers, or Chinese revolutionists, the United States joined other powers for the first time in a military expedition.

Under the high statesmanship of John Hay, the secretary of state, the United States had already, before the Boxer rebellion, laid a restraining hand upon the nations that were looting Chinese territory and had drawn from them pledges to keep an "open door" to trade in the ports they were seizing at the point of the gun. The "open door" has remained ever since the chart of our course in the East. If we will only continue to follow it and should succeed in inducing others to follow it a while longer, until the giant of the Orient awakens from his long slumber and shakes off his foreign despoilers, an emancipated China will be the imposing monument of William McKinley's presidency.

Veteran Mason Celebrates 99 Birthday

W. B. Noel.

On Thursday, March 31, Mr. Willis B. Noel, a former resident of Cloverport, reached his ninety-ninth birthday. The occasion was celebrated at the Old Masons' Home in Shelbyville, where Mr. Noel lives, with a party and a mammoth birthday cake with ninety-nine candles was served the guests.

Mr. Noel was born in Walton, Boone county, Ky. He is a veteran member of the Cloverport Chapter No. 99 of Masonic Lodge, and has been living in the Old Masons' Home five years. In spite of his age, Mr. Noel reads without glasses and has the full possession of all of his faculties. He is remarkably gifted in remembering names and faces.

KY. HAS SIXTY PERSONS TO SQMI.

Average Density of Population in U. S., 1920 was 35 Persons to Sqmi.

Washington, March 21.—The average of density of population throughout the United States exclusive of outlying possessions was 35.5 persons per square mile of land area in 1920 as against 30.9 in 1910, the census bureau announced today.

The density in the individual States in 1920 ranged from 7.10 to 1 per square mile in Nevada to 566.4 in Rhode Island, the bureau announced. It exceeded 200 per square mile in five States, Rhode Island, with 556.4; Massachusetts, 479.2; New Jersey, 420; Connecticut 286.4 and New York, 217.9.

The density figures for other States included: Kentucky, 60.1; Ohio, 144.4 and Tennessee, 56.1.

After Paul Zelinski, of Lancaster, Penn., voted for 40 years he discovered he had never been naturalized. So he filed his application for citizenship, answered all the questions and was naturalized.

ARGUMENT ENDS IN SHOOTING

Coleman Wheatley, Tenant, Shot Jim Jones on Latter's Farm Near Garfield.

Following an argument, which is said to have been over a dog, Jim Jones, of Garfield, was shot and badly injured on Friday afternoon by Coleman Wheatley, a tenant on Jones' farm. Wheatley shot Jones with a double barreled shot gun. The load took effect in Jones' face and throat. Thirty-seven shot entered his face and throat.

It is stated that Jones killed Wheatley's dog a few days before the shooting.

Wheatley went to Hardinsburg and gave himself up. The examining trial was set for Tuesday, but was deferred on account of Jones not being physically able to attend court. The trial has been postponed until Jones recovers.

Wheatley had been a tenant on the Jones farm for five years.
